Research Fellowships

Duties:

- Engage in independent, full-time research in the University of a very high calibre, at a level that appropriately reflects the current stage of their academic careers.

- There is an expectation that Research Fellows will act as advisor for a small number of postgraduate students, attend collections, serve on Committees and play an active role in the social and intellectual life of the College including attending dinners and events throughout the year.

Benefits:

- Research Fellowships at GTC are non-stipendiary, and it is expected that potential candidates will hold funded positions in Oxford for the duration of their appointment.

- Research Fellows have full access to all College facilities such as the Library and Gym, are entitled to free dining rights, and are eligible to apply to a College fund for research and development grants. There is a single Common Room to which all members of the College belong. Spouses, partners and children of Fellows are also invited to use the facilities of the Common Room.

- Research Fellows have access to the Common Table without charge and can therefore dine in College for lunch every day when the Kitchen is open and dinner on some evenings.

Selection Criteria:

Candidates will be expected to have completed or be close to completing a doctorate. Unless circumstances are exceptional, they should be neither newcomers to research nor established scholars.
Although the Fellowships are intended for a relatively junior scholar, this refers to the stage a candidate has reached in his or her career, rather than to the age of the candidate. The College welcomes qualified candidates of all ages and will take into account the individual circumstances of each in selecting successful candidates.

Candidates will be assessed on the quality of their scholarship; in particular, research achievements and future plans; publications to date and future plans, academic career to date and future plans.

Consideration will also be given to the degree of fit of the proposed topic of research with the College’s research interests and teaching needs.
