The Osler-McGovern Centre
13 Norham Gardens
The Grade II listed 13 Norham Gardens is a fine example of Victorian architecture in Oxford. Following his appointment in 1905 as Regius Professor of Medicine at the University of Oxford, Sir William Osler made this beautiful house his family residence. Thus 13 Norham Gardens became home to one of the greatest physicians in the history of medicine. During his fourteen years as Regius Professor, Sir William established 13 Norham Gardens as an intellectual meeting place and source of inspiration for scholars the world over. Osler’s Library, preserved by Green Templeton College, provides a living history of medical and public health studies at the University of Oxford. The McGovern Foundation generously provided funding to the College to purchase the property in 2001; today the Osler-McGovern Centre at 13 Norham Gardens continues Sir William Osler’s tradition, bringing together scholars from all academic disciplines through activities involving lectures, seminars and conferences.
13NG WELCOME  Having already successfully hosted a number of academic events, 13 Norham Gardens is now opening its doors to host conferences for the wider business community. The illustrious history and stunning architecture of the Osler-McGovern Centre at 13NG creates a unique, peaceful and charming atmosphere in which to host conferences, lectures and meetings. Having recently undergone a sympathetic renovation, 13NG successfully offers practical and professional solutions for 21st century meeting needs, whilst retaining its 19th century character and period features. 13NG is located in a peaceful street in north Oxford, within a ten-minute walk of the amenities of the historic city centre and easily accessible by public transport.
13NG FACILITIES

Incorporating a large welcoming entrance hall, three multi-functional spaces and on-site catering, 13NG can flexibly accommodate all your conferencing requirements. A member of our Conference and Events team is available throughout your booking to ensure your conference runs smoothly and guests’ needs are catered for. 13NG is fully-equipped with a variety of audio-visual facilities, including Wi-Fi. If you require specific or bespoke technical support, a technician is on hand to assist you; this must be requested at the time of booking. We are always happy to help and advise you about arrangements such as parking or overnight accommodation in Oxford; please contact our Conference and Events Manager for further information.
This generous space can be used for welcoming guests, registration, and hosting buffets and refreshments breaks.
This is a modern seminar room which can comfortably accommodate 25-30 people in a range of room set-ups.

This elegant room benefits from an abundance of natural light and opens out onto a terrace with steps down to the landscaped garden.

The space can be used for casual/formal dining for up to 24 guests, or as a generous conference space for 30 delegates.

Sir William Osler’s former consulting room is a smaller space best used as a break-out area for 6-10 people.
Prior to your event, we will run through your requirements in detail. The Conference Hospitality Manager will be on hand throughout, ensuring your event runs smoothly, including setting up rooms and equipment. To arrange a visit or to discuss how we can help you organise your successful conference, please contact the Green Templeton College Conference and Events Manager on +44 (0) 1865 284550 or conferences@gtc.ox.ac.uk
